Imitators are not loved by true Americans, nor is the manufacturer who endeavors to imitate a well advertised article by using a similar trademark or package, hoping to fool the public. Do not be fooled—insist on getting what you ask for.

GETTING BREAKFAST.

Experience That Taught a Man to Respect Woman's Ability.

"Ever try to get your own breakfast?" asked the man whose wife is away. "No. Well, it's a most valuable education in the art of holding more than one thing in the mind at a time. I can understand after a week of it how women get to be expert in matters of detail."

"We men go through life blundering along first at one thing and then at another, with the idea that what we are doing at the moment should be finished before anything else is taken up. You can't get breakfast on that principle. Women instinctively know how to run half a dozen things at once. When they have the coffee on the stove and the toast is browning and the eggs cooking they can put the finishing touches on the setting of the table with a light and cheerful heart. At the psychological moment the coffee will be whisked off, the toast extracted and the eggs removed to a place where further application of heat is impossible. It's a wonder to me how they do it."

"A man if he essays to make coffee must devote his whole attention to the operation; likewise with everything else. If he doesn't there'll be trouble. He isn't a success in a double act, and when the question is one of a triple or a quadruple act he might as well throw up his hands. At least," he concluded, with a shade of pride in his tone, "I'll be got the hang of it."

"So you consider yourself qualified now, do you?" his friend inquired, with mock seriousness.

"If a succession of spoiled meals qualifies me," the first speaker rejoined, "I'm in."—New York Press.

AMUSEMENTS.

There is probably no musical comedy that has been brought out this season that has a stronger combination of talent than that which is to be seen in "The District Leader," the new play which opens at the Trocadero on Sunday next. The company is composed of such well known people as Ethel Dovey, Frederick C. Truesdale, Frank Wood, Gustave Neville, Allen T. Freshly, Vera Hamilton, Minna Manley, Pearl Redding, Doris Taylor and Marie Murray, together with a chorus that is said to have been the talk of every city the company has appeared in. The sale of seats will begin today.

W. A. Gullikson and A. A. Dool, of Anthony, Kansas, are here looking for a location for a business college.

THE ASSOCIATED PRESS.

(From the State Capital Dec. 26.)
As a distributor of news the Associated Press, a national organization of persons numbering about 3,000 is without a peer. It has its own leased wires which form a net work across the longest and broadest of the continent. The total mileage of this leased wire system is approximately 147,000 miles. The number of words daily received and transmitted at each of the more important offices is over 400,000, or the equivalent of thirty-five columns of the average newspaper.
It furnishes this service at present to 445 afternoon papers and to 250 morning papers. It furnishes this service to fourteen papers in the state of Oklahoma, ten of which are afternoon papers, the other four are morning publications.
This shows most emphatically that the evening paper is the choice of the reading public today.
Again from a pamphlet just issued by the Associated Press we find that Oklahoma takes rank as seventeenth in the states receiving this service.
